Landscape Irrigation Meters: No Impact Fee shall be collected for water taps exclusively for landscape irrigation systems.

The impact fees are determined by the date of the plat (this determines which fee structure to utilize) and what the type of development will be utilized on the property. The impact fees are calculated for the following types of scenarios:

1. The land has not been platted - The impact fees will be calculated based on the date of the plat utilizing the current impact fee structure and type of development.
2. January 24, 2014 to August 31, 2020: The land has been platted and not developed - Impact fees will be calculated based upon the date of the plat and utilize the fee structure in-place during that date of plat and the type of development proposed.
3. The land has been platted with existing development and will be re-developed - Impact fees were calculated and previously paid based upon the date of the plat, the impact fee structure during that plat, and the type of development. The calculated and previously paid impact fee for the exiting development will be utilized to provide a credit for the proposed re-development. The re-development impact fee will be calculated under the impact fee structure for the date of the plat and the previously paid impact fee will be subtracted from the new impact fee.
4. The land has been platted with existing development and will be re-platted and re-developed - Impact fees were calculated and previously paid based upon the date of the plat, the impact fee structure during that plat, and the type of development. The calculated and previously paid impact fee of the exiting development will be utilized to provide a credit for the proposed re-development. The re-development impact fee will be calculated under the current impact fee structure, due to the new plat date, and the existing fee will be subtracted from the new fee.
